Peter Rice has used a Quaker's calm and a love of kids to help build one of the best camping and environmental programs on the Bay.

Rice Lauded in Heroic Swamp Rescue

Wolf-dog still at large

Fed up with the spate of missing campers absconded into the swamp by the famed and feared Eastern Shore wolf-dog Zacharia, Peter Rice single handedly retrieved the frightened, hungry children. Chesapeake Bay Magazine scooped us on the story, but Rice has promised us exclusive rights to the motion picture, to be directed by Academy Award Winning filmmaker Nigel Noble and members of the Blair Witch Project production team. NEWS FROM ECHO HILL CAMBERSHIP FUND

FALL/WINTER 2001 VOLUME XIII

Letter from the Board

Dear Friends, throughout this sun-drenched autumn, our thoughts drifted repeatedly to the serenity and splendor of Echo Hill. With each eerily perfect day since the horrors of 9/11, it was hard not to crave the blissful buzzing of the swamp or the breezy warmth of the beach. As we are reminded every time we read our mail, people who have known camp's indelible and sustaining security span the globe. Just conjuring images of the landscape and memories of old friends has been a comfort—and a reminder of Echo Hill's reach. We hope our annual newsletter finds you and your families safe and well.

We write to bring you EHCF news, to thank you for generosity, and to ask for help. In 2001, the blessings have been mixed for EHCF. A withering economy has been unkind to our bank statement. We are sobered by the prospect that even a single one of our kids might not be able to return to camp. The adjacent article quantifies in total dollars the implications of our recent growth. Yet, we are excited to share news of one family's generosity; we hope that you find the story inspiring and the act worth imitating.

The Board recognizes that this year, in particular, there are many worthy organizations to which you might contribute. In fact, amidst the call for disaster relief, we momentarily considered suspending our fundraising activities. Then we changed our minds. Instead of

For EHCF, the Future is Now

Annual support for the Echo Hill Campership Fund has grown steadily over the last 10 years. In the early 90's we were sending two or three kids each year; in 2001, that growth enabled us to send nine kids to camp. Yet, when we extend a campership, we make a long-term commitment to the growth of that kid. Continuity, in other words, making sure kids can return to camp as long as they are of camp age, is a major charter of the EHCF. Whether or not we can insure that our 9 year old from Baltimore becomes a CA one day greatly depends on all of us. And there are eight other kids like her.

Take a moment to consider the accompanying chart. It illustrates the financial reality of sustaining this effort by approximating the cost of our current commitment to send the nine kids from the class of 2001 back to camp each summer through their CA years. We begin every new year cognizant that our first obligation is to those kids we sent to camp the previous summer. Once we raise enough money to ensure their return, we consider new applicants. And every year there are invariably a few very needy kids who we simply can't afford to send to camp.

When taking the long view, it becomes quite clear that we need to do more. Frankly, the EHCF currently has just enough in savings and investments to guarantee payment of one more summer of tuition. On top of that, we continue to receive applications from new kids who clearly need the stability of Echo Hill. One of the hardest things we do each year is notifying the kids we can't afford to accept. We need your help to meet our commitment to our nine current kids while extending the camp experience to our neediest new applicants.

downplaying our efforts, we're committed to strengthening them. In these unnerving and dangerous times, kids who already live amid tenuous circumstances need Echo Hill Camp more than ever. (We knew that.)

Think about it: Echo Hill allows kids the time, space, and freedom to just be, and to know a place that is free from fear. The nine kids you sent to camp in 2001 had enough to deal with before September. Join us as we extend to them a secure reprieve from the anxieties of difficult circumstances.

To our long-standing donors, please, continue to contribute to EHCF. Some amazing kids are counting on you. To those who have not given in the past, we need you now, and next year, and the year after that. No pressure or anything, but did you know that many current campers and counselors make donations to us every year. Its not that they are any smarter than you, exactly. They just know how cool camp is. (Which you'd probably remember if you weren't 40 million years old.) Think of an annual gift to EHCF as insurance that whatever else is going on in the world, another kid gets to know what freedom feels like.

But wait....what's that sound? Why, it's the bell ringing, of course. Peter has sanctioned a full-on camp party the first weekend of June, 2002. The last reunion weekend was unforgettable — big turnout, sublime weather, haute cuisine, transcendent dell service, and some really sloppy softball. This reunion is going to be even better. (The Eagles have tentatively agreed to play the dance.) So save the date. Organize your camp friends and families to attend. Call us if you want help coercing the reticent and afraid.

We wish you and your families peace and joy during the holiday season. We can't wait to see you in June!

Sincerely, The EHCF Board ■

Camp to Host June Reunion

Think back to your days at camp; bonfires on the bluff, sailing vs. skiing, land-sports vs. waterfront, invading Tockwoh, horse back riding on the beach, road rally in the riding ring, capture the flag, the sound of tent flaps in the wind, sing-backs in the dining hall, flag raising (or sleeping through it), trash drives, Howell trail at night, Honey's cooking, swamp mucking ... the list goes on. If you ever get the urge to pack up your trunk and head back to camp, here is your chance! The EHCF and Driftwood Productions are throwing a reunion June 1 through 2, 2002. Camp alumni and their families and friends are invited to spend the weekend, sleep at camp, play to their hearts' content, and generally hang out. So save the date! It's going to be a great, madcap weekend of zaniness, high-jinks, and fun. We'll be in touch with more information as the date approaches and we can't wait to see you back at camp!!! ■

The most direct way to make sure the current kids get back to camp each summer is to make a personal donation every year. Send your contribution of $25, $50, or $100 directly to EHCF by filling out and returning the form attached at the bottom of page 7 of this newsletter.

If your company has a matching program for donations to worthy causes, participate and make a donation to EHCF. Most companies require that you submit a description of the recipient of the matching donation. If you need a copy of the EHCF Mission Statement for the application process, please go to the Echo Hill Campership Fund website at www.EHCF.org. Simply cut and paste the text that is located under "Mission Statement" into standard Word format. If you need anything else for your records, do not hesitate to contact us via email at Hassetjulie@earthlink.net.

Are you or is someone you know a frequent participant in road running and cycling events? Next time you sign up for a race, ask friends and family to sponsor your run/bike/walk in the name of EHCF.

Lastly, donate your time and interest. When you receive the reunion invitation, call your Echo Hill friends. Get them to register for the reunion. We ask that you pay particular attention to the list of lost alumni at the website and contact who ever you may know on that list. We want to make this the best reunion ever and generate as much interest in EHCF as possible. Being an active participant and a consistent donor to EHCF is the coolest way possible for you to stay connected with camp—through the experiences and growth of a great bunch of kids. ■

Staff Lounge Half Done (Half Not) as 3-Year Development Plan of Dining Hall Complex Celebrates 10th Anniversary

Echo Hill is well on its way to completing the first half of the latest, major addition to camp. The new Staff Lounge, long in the planning stage, will one day be complete, according to Driftwood sources. From grandiose rusticity to rustic grandiosity, visions and dreams have changed, but shovel to dirt and hammer to nail has resulted in the lounge reaching the halfway point to completion. That's right, luxury — Echo Hill style, is just around the corner (and down the block, take a left, go two more blocks, over the bridge...).

Located behind the dining hall and almost half as large, the two story building will be equipped with computers, flat-screen TV, DVD, theatre sound, and central heat and air. A bathroom and shower will be added soon, as well as some space for early-arriving staff to lay their bed rolls down for a little shut-eye.

In a surprise to no one, the new lounge will be a staff-only site. Infrared cameras and motion sensors will guard the periphery, though escapees from Rahway have already notified authorities of plans to establish residency in the facility. ■

2001 Camperships

In 2001, nine kids received camperships to go to Echo Hill. They range in age from nine to thirteen years old, and hail from the Eastern Shore, DC, Baltimore, and Pennsylvania. They all had a blast, and, as is nearly always the case, every one of them wants to go back next summer. While we often hear from parents and relatives how much the kids love camp, it always means the most when we hear directly from the kids themselves. The following submission comes from a seasoned camp veteran who has now spent three summers at Echo Hill. This avid landsportsman oneday hopes to be a counselor.

Echo Hill is the Place to Be

If you want to play football or basketball,

Or just hang out until nightfall,

If you want to play soccer

'Til they say it's enough,

Or just watch the sunset from the bluff,

Echo Hill is the place to be.

If you want to ski or play lacrosse,

Or dress up on a special day all covered in moss,

To hang out with best friends who make you laugh 'til you cry,

To keep playing one-on-one 'til it ends in a tie,

Echo Hill is the place to be.

To have the best fun with Penny and Pete,

Or walk to the dining hall in just your bare feet,

Or raid someone's tent and hide all of their sheets,

Echo Hill is the place to be.

If you want the above from beginning to end,

And you can't wait to get back to all your camp friends,

Then isn't it totally plain to see?

Echo Hill is the place to be!!

Echo Hill Family Makes Lasting Gift

The Alfandre family, longtime supporters of EHCF whose relationship to Echo Hill spans four decades, has announced plans to annually donate $5,000 to EHCF. Nicole Alfandre, a former camper, counselor, and EHCF board member, called to give us the good news.

The Alfandres have made a $5,000 donation this year, and hope to make this level of support available each year hereafter.

Nicole explained, "It is my family's goal to keep up this level of donation in future years because one of the strengths of EHCF has been its efforts to send the same children back to camp each year. We think that sending a child every year from the time they are 9 or 10 has tremendous value. We would hate to see a child go for a few years, and then have the funds dry up so they were unable to attend anymore."

Alfandre added, "We know that one of the things EHCF has decided to do in the past is to use larger family fund donations to build up an investment account to assure there will always be money for kids to go to camp, even in years when other fundraising means are not very fruitful. We applaud that goal. Yet, while we give this money without any strings attached, we hope that it will be used in full each year. It is our goal to see as many kids as possible benefit from the camp experience."

The donation will help at least three kids return to camp in 2002. From everyone on the EHCF Board, and from all the campers who will benefit, THANK YOU to the Alfandres and to all our loyal supporters. ■

Reconstructed Schooner Plies Bay on Educational Mission

Former Echo Hill camper and counselor Drew McMullen recently completed a very exciting project in Chestertown. Drew, who many remember as one of camp's most skilled sailors, served as the Project Director for the construction of HMS Sultana, an authentic reconstruction of a British warship that patrolled the American seaboard prior to the Revolutionary War. The original Sultana was built in Boston, sailed to England, and sold to the Royal Navy. Sultana was outfitted by the Royal Navy and dispatched back to the colonies where she was employed in the effort to catch American smugglers trying to evade the tea tax and other trade restrictions imposed on the colonies. The new Sultana was built in Chestertown by a core group of professional shipwrights aided by hundreds of volunteers. The reconstruction effort culminated on March 24, 2001 with a celebratory launch of the two-masted schooner at the foot of High Street in Chestertown. After her sea trials, Sultana spent the summer on an inaugural tour of the Chesapeake Bay. It's likely that the new boat will be more warmly regarded than her predecessor as the schooner's contemporary mission is strictly educational. Captain and crew will host visits by school age children through most of the year. The curriculum is designed to educate young people about the history and ecology of the Chesapeake Bay. Former Echo Hill Outdoor School teacher Chris Cerino is the Sultana's educational director. Sultana's homeport is Chestertown and she can often be found alongside a newly constructed dock at the foot of High Street. More information about Sultana's construction, mission, and schedule can be found at www.schoonersultana.com. ■

EHCF recently outfitted an alum in a special, pressure-treated cybernaut spacesuit and sent him deep into the ether to track down our errant web site and return it to a cyberspace address near you! That's right, folks, we are up-and-running again, and just in the nick of time. We have a big year ahead of us with a reunion to publicize and news to capture from all of you.

So please revisit your favorite web site today. Register your email and mailing addresses to let us know where you are; you will be given the choice of having it generally shared with other alums. JOIN EHCF's TEAM: 500 TODAY!

If you are still reading this newsletter, you probably: care deeply for Echo Hill Camp, believe whole-heartedly in EHCF's mission to offer the neediest among us a chance to attend the greatest camp on earth, or, it is the year 2003 and you found this newsletter in a deep pile of unread magazines. No matter, we're just glad you are reading this and hope it inspires you to act.

EHCF announces Team: 500, an influential group of former campers leading fundraising teams of 5 or fewer, in an effort to link old friends while taking advantage of the fact that friends motivate friends and family members to donate in ways no one else can match.

Here's how it works: You commit to raise and/or donate $500. You, then, reach out to friends and family to help obtain that dollar figure. Upon receipt of the donation, the team leader will be recognized and worshipped in an upcoming newsletter and at www.EHCF.org as a Team: 500 member. Each member of your team that donates $100 will be recognized as a member of Team: 100, a sub-set of Team: 500. A little convoluted? Sure. But we'll try anything.

As you know, we want this organization to be self-sufficient. That means a fund whose interest alone pays for our annual commitment to our campers. The sooner self-sufficiency is achieved, the sooner this newsletter becomes funnier and less focused on asking you for money. So, we are asking each of you to join Team: 500 and really make a difference in this, your organization, and the lives of individual campers.

Trying to think of ways to form a Team? How about all those friends that asked you to sponsor them in a bowl-a-thon for Leukemia? Or the people that asked you to sponsor their marathon for breast cancer? Get your mom and your best friend to support you and you're almost there!

Just 10 Echo Hill Team: 500's and EHCF grows by $5,000. 25 teams = $12,500. We mail this newsletter to more than 1000 people. We know that more than 10% of our readers are deeply committed to the idea of sending the underserved to Echo Hill. 10% = 100(+) alums = $50,000. $50,000!!!!

If each reader committed to finding a few friends and family to each donate $100, EHCF would achieve self-sufficiency right away, with a fund worth more than $500,000. That would be a revolutionary achievement. Truly remarkable. Something each of us could rightly feel very proud of accomplishing. But, for now, we'll try not to get ahead of ourselves.

Launch your own Team: 500 today. Your hard work and commitment will create an important and lasting legacy.

If you have any questions or want a little help building your team, please go to www.EHCF.org and click on the "Contact EHCF" button.

For all you've done and all you hope to do, a hearty Thank You and Happy New Year! ■
